

28: Post-Spring Break (Momo & Hiro) (Post in March or April, 2021)

W: Hi Hiro! What'd ya do over spring break? ... It's weird saying that, since in Japan spring break is long, but it's only a week here in the US.

M: Ha, I know, right? I spent the week camping in Yosemite National Park with Melina! Check out these photos of the giant, ancient sequoia trees!

W: Wow!! The trees are so big! Did you see any bears?

M: Thankfully, no. It would've been cool though... What did YOU do over spring break, Momo?

W: I went to San Francisco! I visited the Japantown- it was so strange! I also went to Pier 39.

M: Pier 39? What's that?

W: It's a pier on San Francisco Bay! But it's more than that-- there are a bunch of little stores and restaurants, like a mall, but outside. The wind made it so cold. But the clam chowder in a bread bowl made it worth it!

M: Ooh, that sounds delicious. Did you catch the clams yourself, since the bay was right there?

W: Wha... what...Ha ha... No.. (Written by Jazmin Boulton)
