(phone rings)

Lucy: Hey, Taro! Did you solve the clue? Are you at your first destination?

Taro: Yeah, Lucy, I figured out where you wanted me to go. But I still don't understand what's going on. Can you please come get me?

Lucy: No, Taro! That won't be fun! If you follow the clues I give you, it'll lead to me and you get to see lots of cool places! Come on! Give it a try!

Taro: Um... OK....

Lucy: Great! Now, how did you solve it?

Taro: It was easy, Elizabeth Tower is the official new name for Big Ben. I did some research about it. But everyone still just calls it Big Ben.

Lucy: Good job, Taro! Wow, you really DID do your research.

Taro: Yeah, well, I was looking forward to seeing these places WITH YOU.

Lucy: Aww, well. Hey, I have your next clue!!! You'll see me soon if you just follow the clues.

Taro: OK, I'll play with you. Shoot!

Lucy: OK. If you move three steps to your right, there should be a loose pavement stone. Your next clue is under it!

Taro: Hey, how do you know my exact location? Are you here and watching me!? (happily)

Lucy: No, silly! I planted a GPS tracker when I hugged you at Heathrow!

Taro: Haha! Unbelievable!... (finding the paper with the next clue) OK, my next clue is: "I spy with my little eye, the best view in London."
